School of Education and Mondavi Center, UC Davis and Shakespeare’s Globe in London are partners in a professional development initiative that provides in-depth learning opportunities for selected drama and English teachers of grades 7–12 in the Sacramento region: The Globe Education Academy for Teachers.

Now in its 10th year, the Globe Academy immerses teachers in the world of Shakespeare both at UC Davis and in London. Teachers will participate in workshops from Shakespeare's Globe theatre practitioners and faculty at UC Davis. The Academy travels to Shakespeare's Globe in London for two weeks in July 2016 to work with Globe Education practitioners, and will celebrate their extraordinary experience with a festival day of theatre on stage at Mondavi Center in fall 2016.

PARTICIPANTS WILL HAVE TRAINING IN THE FOLLOWING:

- Collaborative Team-Building for the Classroom: Experience creatively instructed classroom activities designed to provide a sense of ensemble and enable students who have never been on stage to participate confidently in performance work.

- Myths and Realities of Shakespeare’s Stage: Learn about the life and times of Shakespeare at the Globe and how the theatre building influenced plays and performances.

- Lively Action: Draw on Globe Education’s active approaches to teaching Shakespeare’s plays as scripts for performance rather than texts for desk-bound reading and celebrate the “soul of lively action.”

- Essential Questions: Explore the fundamental questions that educators and scholars pose, and engage in discussions that illuminate the text for understanding and performance.

- Creative Methods Inspire Teaching and Learning: Explore and develop practical ways to teach Shakespeare’s themes that will influence creative approaches to teaching across the school curriculum.

- Theatre Stuff without Stuffiness: Develop innovative techniques to teach Shakespeare’s language in the classroom, drawing on Globe Education’s respected program for students and teachers.

- Comprehensive Resources: Receive resources and materials that will enhance your classroom curriculum.

Reflections from 2015 GEA teachers:

“I feel like I’m truly a part of the Globe family dynasty.”

“It was intense both physically and mentally.”

“The experience reminded me to play and to care for others (on stage and off).”

“My experience with the Globe reconnected me to my creative, playful self. I can’t wait to share my experiences with my students!”

“INCREDBLE!!!!!!”

“This blessed opportunity of spending time with the Globe practitioners and this program has not only been professionally impactful, but heart, mind and soul life-enhancing. Thank you!”

“My experience has been overwhelming in the best possible way—one I will NEVER forget!”

“GEA is a transformative experience as a teacher, a performer and an individual.”

“This was seriously the best experience of my life.”
THE GLOBE EDUCATION ACADEMY IS COMPRISED OF THREE SEGMENTS:

The first segment, in Spring 2016, will feature UC Davis and Globe Education practitioners from London presenting three workshops at UC Davis designed to deepen the understanding of Shakespeare's work and applications, connections and relationships that his work inspires. Participants will learn new strategies for classroom use, along with creative ways to teach Shakespeare in the classroom. Each participating teacher is asked to attend along with three to four students from their respective classrooms. This segment also prepares teachers for the next phase: a two-week residency in London, England.

The second segment, in July 2016, is comprised of a two week residency in London, England, to study at Shakespeare's Globe. Teachers will walk the cobblestone streets of Bankside in Southwark, participate in an excursion across London and seek images of Shakespeare in museums and cathedrals to determine how his countrymen viewed him. Under the guidance of a dedicated Course Director, participants will work with Globe Education practitioners and theatre artists to develop strategies to bring Shakespeare's words to life through voice, movement and staging.

The third and final segment, in November 2016, will take place at Mondavi Center, UC Davis. Participating teachers and students will showcase scenes from a Shakespeare play and share in a final day of celebration. This day will include an exciting showcase of culminating performances by teachers and students. These ensemble performances will demonstrate strategies learned from workshops and seminars in the Globe Education Academy.

GLOBE EDUCATION ACADEMY ORIENTATION

Mondavi Center, UC Davis will host an orientation in February 2016 to provide participants with the information they need to plan for this intensive learning and professional development opportunity. Participants will also receive information regarding international travel, course work and requirements, and necessary scheduling requirements. A wine and cheese reception will follow.

Expenses: The cost of the residency (including lodging) and workshops at Shakespeare's Globe in London are paid for by the partnership. Participants in the Academy are expected to pay for their flights and meals. Lodging is located close to Shakespeare's Globe. Please note that the residency in London is expected and intended to be intense, and that family vacations or other excursions in London should occur before or after the Shakespeare's Globe visit. No accommodations are available for family.
